Dharius' Bio

One of the most prolific communicators of our day, Dr. Dharius Daniels is on a mission to help as many people as possible become their best selves while doing their best work. Speaker, coach, and certified emotional intelligence specialist, Dharius specializes in helping others self optimize without self destructing. He acquired his passion to add value to the lives of others at an early age growing up in a small town, Kilmichael, MS. Although the population was less than 700 residents, he was taught by his father that your enlightenment, not your environment, determines your outcomes. He was inspired to unleash his untapped potential while gaining his undergraduate degree from Millsaps College and post graduate degrees from Princeton and Fuller.

With over 20 years of leadership experience, Dharius understands that right information can cause a comprehensive revolution. This passion for transformation inspired him to continue his writing career by releasing his most recent published book Relational Intelligence: The People Skills You Need For The Life Of Purpose You Want. Dr. Dharius also emerged in the mentoring and coaching arena with the release of Daniels Den Mentoring and Real Life Seminary Coaching Programs, which serves thousands of members.

In addition to his contributions in the field of speaking and coaching, Dharius continues to serve as Lead Pastor of the multi-site, and multi-regional, Change Church. He has also served as an adjunct professor at Princeton. He enjoys downtime with activities such as playing a round of golf or weight training. Dharius is married to his college sweetheart, Shameka, and they are the proud parents of two sons, Seth and Gabriel.

Shameka's Bio

Shameka Daniels is a marriage and personal development coach committed to helping women live whole, anchored, and fulfilled lives. She works with women and couples who are ready to grow emotionally, spiritually, and relationally—without losing themselves in the process.

Through coaching intensives, workshops, digital resources, and transformational experiences, Shameka helps women strengthen their inner life, deepen their marriages, and build disciplined, peaceful lives that reflect both faith and emotional maturity. Her approach blends biblical truth with practical strategy—because inspiration without application does not produce change.

With a Master's degree in Health & Human Counseling: Marriage and Family, Shameka brings both clinical insight and spiritual wisdom to her work. She is a certified Grief Recovery Specialist and a certified John C. Maxwell Coach, Teacher, Trainer, and Speaker. Her work focuses on emotional health, communication in marriage, boundaries, personal responsibility, and living intentionally.

In addition to her coaching practice, Shameka serves in executive leadership at Change Church, where she helps lead organizational strategy and development. Her leadership experience in ministry, business operations, and family life uniquely equips her to speak into both private growth and public impact.

A proud member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated, Shameka values sisterhood, service, and legacy. She is a devoted wife to her husband, Dharius, and a proud mother to their two sons. She enjoys travel, fitness, reading, and creating spaces where women can grow strong, soft, disciplined, and free.
